

BULLETIN BOARD IDEAS

Over the past decade computer usage has increased tenfold. Many computer terms have been quickly adopted into the English language. Create a bulletin board of computer terms acceptable in SCRABBLE® game play. Use pictures along with words and definitions. Allow students to add to the display with computer terms and definitions of their own.

Here is a list of computer terms you can start with:

Baud: A unit of data transmission speed

Blog: A website containing a personal journal

Byte: the fundamental unit of data that can be processed by a computer.

Chip: a small rectangle of silicon material with thousands of electronic circuits.

Cursor: Light indicator on a computer display

Database: A collection of data files

Software: Computer programs and their documentation.

Tutorial: Computer assisted instruction lessons

Webcam: a camera used for transmitting live images over the world wide web

Weblog: a website containing a personal journal

Website: a set of connected webpages maintained by an individual or organization

Monitor:

a screen that gives a video display of computer input

Webpage:

a single document on the world wide web

Keyboard:

to use a keyboard to input information

Modem:

computers transmit information over telephone lines or cables through this

